As the release of matric results approaches, many South African students face uncertainty about their future. With limited space at public universities and concerns about funding, the dream of higher education can seem like a distant possibility for many young South Africans. However, Eduvos, South Africa's leading private higher education institution, is here to offer a brighter outlook.

No result left behind: A pathway for every student

Eduvos understands that not everyone's path to success starts with a stellar matric result. The institution offers diverse study options, ensuring no student is left behind. Eduvos has a qualification that will suit any prospective student's needs, regardless of a student's matric results.

With over 20 fully accredited and internationally recognised qualifications across four future-facing faculties, Eduvos caters to a wide variety of interests and aspirations. These qualifications include access and pre-degree foundation programmes for students who might need to bridge the gap in their matric results, short courses that are more focused or higher certificates, a one-year qualification that will launch their careers or further studies.

Prospective students can already pre-enrol at Eduvos before the release of their final results. Eduvos also accepts late applications and has four intakes throughout the year for those who might still want to weigh up other options.

Addressing the higher education gap

South Africa faces a critical challenge as the demand for higher education far exceeds the capacity of public universities. In 2023, over 200,000 first-year students enrolled at public universities, yet over 800,000 learners passed matric. This is where Eduvos and private higher education step in, filling the critical gap and offering opportunities to more students than many of the top public universities.

In 2023 alone, Eduvos admitted more first-year students than several established public universities. Eduvos plans to continue this positive trend this year. Everyone deserves access to quality education, and Eduvos is committed to making it a reality.

Making education affordable

Eduvos believes in quality, affordable, private higher education. Funding remains a major concern for many students. Eduvos understands this and has teamed up with multiple funding partners who can help students find a payment solution that works for them. From flexible payment plans to generous external scholarships and bursaries, Eduvos is dedicated to making your dream a reality.
