YourSchoolBox harnesses Snapplify technology to make sign-in simple

Online stationery retailer YourSchoolBox has partnered with Snapplify to make buying stationery even easier for Snapplify schools. Using the edtech company's authentication technology Snapplify Access, YourSchoolBox provides users with the option to sign in with their existing Snapplify accounts, saving time and ensuring a seamless user experience.

The e-commerce company joins a growing number of businesses making use of Snapplify Cloud Services to provide customers with efficient and easy access to their services.

“YourSchoolBox is delighted to partner with Snapplify. With both companies focused on using technology to equip schools and students with essential learning requirements, there was an obvious synergy to explore,” said David Adams from YourSchoolBox. “Snapplify has trusted relationships with schools throughout South Africa, and by integrating our online ordering platform with theirs, suddenly schools and parents have a simple and seamless way to create and order Back2School stationery packs online. YourSchoolBox is proud to be associated with one of Africa's leading edtech companies and look forward to collaborating.”

“Snapplify has always been focused on harnessing technology to make it easier for schools and students to access what they need in the classroom. Our relationship with YourSchoolBox fits perfectly with this ethos and we’re excited to be able to offer reliable authentication tech to make the process of buying stationery online even simpler for thousands of Snapplify users,” said Tarryn-Anne Anderson, Snapplify’s growth director.
