

New Airlink route connects Cape Town with Walvis Bay

Airlink, the privately-owned regional airline, is launching a new direct flight service between Cape Town and Walvis Bay, commencing 2 March 2021.

© Tomasz Wyszolnirski – 123RF.com

The Cape Town - Walvis Bay route will be Airlink's fourth South Africa - Namibia route. The others are: Johannesburg - Windhoek, Cape Town - Windhoek and Johannesburg - Walvis Bay.

"This new service is ideal for business and leisure travellers with the port city of Walvis Bay being an important economic hub and gateway to some of Namibia's prized tourist destinations, including the Namib Desert, Swakopmund and the Skeleton Coast. Walvis Bay, Langstrand and Swakopmund are also home to a significant community of people who commute between Namibia and South Africa," explained Airlink CEO, Rodger Foster.

Airlink will operate the following weekday flights between Cape Town and Walvis Bay on Tuesdays, Thursdays and Saturdays:

- 4Z 382 departing Cape Town at 2pm, arriving at Walvis Bay at 4.15pm
- 4Z 383 departing Walvis Bay at 4.50pm, arriving at Cape Town at 7pm

For more, visit: <https://www.bizcommunity.com>