

Trellix appoints Harold Rivas as its new chief information security officer

Trellix has appointed Harold Rivas as its chief information security officer. Rivas will be responsible for Trellix's global security and compliance initiatives, ensuring protection from threats, managing compliance requirements and implementing industry-wide best practices.

For more, visit: <https://www.bizcommunity.com>