

Digital Shadows strengthens management team with several new appointments

Digital risk management company, Digital Shadow, has named Dan Lowden, Schwark Satyavolu, and Paul Kenealy as its new chief marketing officer, board member, and director of intelligence respectively.

Lowden will be tasked with leading the company's strategic marketing efforts to expand globally whilst Satyavolu will be providing business expertise and advice and Kenealy, as director of intelligence, will be tasked with expanding the company's human led closed source coverage and intelligence.

For more, visit: <https://www.bizcommunity.com>