

LG launches large 3D LED TV screen

LG has released its LZ9700, which combines the ultimate in its 3D picture quality with the latest developments in connectivity and smart technology. It allows viewers to also enjoy video streaming from YouTube and photos via Google's free web photo service, Picasa. With its intuitive and easy-to-use magic motion remote control, all of its functions are simple to find and operate.

Described as the world's largest full LED 3D TV screen, it is 59 inches wide and 40 inches tall and delivers an outstanding 3D experience. Further connectivity options come in the shape of a smart DLNA function, which lets users wirelessly access files stored on other media devices to enjoy them on the big screen.

It is available from electronics retailer at a recommended retail price of R250 000 incl. vat.
